MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Training

FROM : John F. Blake
Deputy Director for Administration

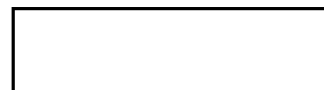

Harry:

1. Hank Knoche has mentioned to me his opinion that we should be giving greater stress in most training courses to our new relationships with the Congress. This would include information on Senate Resolution 400 which established the Senate Select Committee, the responsibilities of the Senate Select Committee, the principal findings of the Church Committee, etc. He believes this material should be worked into initial orientation courses, as well as those given to more senior people.

2. I know you are active in this field. Would you be good enough to give me a piece of paper which shows what you have done in the sense of inviting Members of Congress, plus members of their staffs, to speak to various courses. I believe the Office of Legislative Counsel representatives, as well as those in the Office of General Counsel also stressed this point. There may or may not be some gap in the more basic introductory courses.

3. Your paper should state what you have done to date and then any future plans that might be stimulated by this memorandum.
